From a Gentleman of the Navy. after his return from a long Voyage
To a Lady.

Escapd from rocks, and shoals, and sands.
I'll put to sea no more;
But truly, with uplifted hands.
Now kiss the friendly Shore.

Blest in content's so lovely vale
No Shipwreck can ensue;
No passion e'er can raise a Gale,
Unless design'd by you

Then keep me, since I am now at land
In peace, and free of pain
Lest dreading a tyrannic hand
I launch my bark again -

Finis.
